Partnership in Missions

John & Linda Wagner
Wycliffe Bible Translators

John and Linda Wagner recently returned from a four-week trip to Mexico, where John filled in as the administrator of SIL's training center there. He supervised the employees and oversaw the operation of the center so that activities could continue. In February a linguistics workshop was held for linguists and nationals. Understanding better how a language functions leads to an improved way of writing it, making it easier for people to learn to read it. Also Linda traveled for a few days to a remote village with Carey, a fellow missionary who is learning the Chinantec language and hopes to soon begin Bible translation. This was a great opportunity for Linda to experience the community where Carey serves, so she can encourage and pray for her more effectively. (John and Linda serve with Wycliffe Bible Translators, supporting the work of Bible translation in Mexico.)
